DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

The Public are CAUTIONED against the unfounded statement, frequently made, "that the composition of CHLORODYNE is known to Chemists and the Medical Profession." The fact is, CHLORODYNE was Discovered and Invented by Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE (ex Army Medical Staff), and so named by him, and it has baffled all attempts at analysis by the first Chemists of the day. The method and secret of the preparation have never been published. It is obvious, therefore, that anything sold under the name, save Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, is a spurious imitation.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE.

REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION.

This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates healthy action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effect and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most extensively, using it in great quantities in the following diseases:—Cholera, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Colics, Coughs, Asthma, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Cramp, Hysteria, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM MEDICAL OPINIONS.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians, and J. T. Davenport, that he had received information to the effect that the ONLY remedy of any service in Cholera was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, Dec. 31, 1864.

From A. Montgomery, Esq., late Inspector of Hospitals, Bombay—"CHLORODYNE is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Asthma, and Dysentery. To it I fairly owe my restoration to health, after 18 months' severe suffering, and when other remedies had failed."

Dr. Lowe, Medical Missionary in India, reports (Dec., 1864) that in recently every case of Cholera in which Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE was administered, the patient recovered.

Extract from Medical Times, Jan. 19, 1866.—"CHLORODYNE is prescribed by scores of orthodox medical practitioners. Of course it would not thus be singularly popular did it not supply a want and fill a place."

CAUTION.—None genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

Sole Manufacturer.—J. T. DAVENPORT, 33, GREAT RUSSELL ST., BLOOMSBURY, LONDON.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

SALES AND PURCHASES.

PIECE GOODS.

In all kinds of Piece Goods a very small business continues to be done from first hands, and prices are barely maintained. The holders have, however, as yet shown no disposition to give way, but to effect sales to any extent lower rates would undoubtedly have to be accepted except for a few descriptions of Grey Goods, which are still in good demand. The following sales have taken place on Saturday:—

250 Shirtings	40 in. 56 yds. 7 lbs.	@	Rs. 4 10 0
1,000 „	White 3 accounts 40 „ 20 „	at „	„ 2 4 0

COTTON.

The market on Saturday closed very quiet, with prices weaker. Notwithstanding the willingness of sellers to accept lower prices, there is no disposition on the part of purchasers to operate. The following purchases are reported to have been made by European firms on Saturday:—

500 candies Bhawnuggur	at Rs. 195 to 200
„ Dholera	at „ 198

MONDAY, JUNE 30, 1873.

THE Indu Prakash has hit upon a case of undoubted police oppression, of unmistakeable [illegible] in the Tanna [illegible] before Mr. Coghlan. The chief constable, two head constables, and one policeman were accused of having used torture to one Yanajee to induce him to disclose where some stolen property was hidden. The accused were all found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment of ten, five, three, and two years respectively. What a glorious opportunity was presented to the Prakash for abusing the whole of the police of India, and the occasion has been made the most of. The conduct of the Tanna Police is in this instance traced to the new Criminal Procedure Code, and the brutality that was practised is said to be the "legitimate consequence" of the Code. Similar brutality is said by the Prakash to take place "all over British India." Native princes are not to be hated "for the execrable tortures they inflict upon their prisoners." "If enlightenment cannot produce humanity, how can ignorance do it." The "people everywhere dread the police."

These are the accusations made by the Indu Prakash against the police of India, and the reflections of our contemporary upon the case under notice are most painful to peruse. The readers of the Prakash are persuaded to regard themselves as living in great danger from the police under the new Criminal Procedure Code and under the British Government. The perverse way in which the Prakash reads and interprets the Tanna Police torture case clearly shows that a grievance against the British Government was so eagerly sought after as to blind the judgment of the writer. The facts are in a nutshell. Torture of a purely native kind was really employed by native policemen in whom the head of the department trusted. No other class of men being available for the police except those whose natures loved torture and who would probably practice it whenever they thought they could safely do so. The victim of the police torture dies, and then several native witnesses come forward to describe what they had seen. A native Sub-Magistrate makes a preliminary enquiry and "falsifies the evidence taken by him in the interests of the accused persons." The case comes for trial before an English Judge and Native Assessors, the latter are employed to aid in the administration of justice. The Native Assessors are willing to acquit the prisoners (the Prakash carefully avoids allusion to this fact in the case), and it is the English Judge who alone insists on justice being done. Throwing aside the opinion of the Assessors, the Judge, reaches the guilty policemen, not by his knowledge of the law, but by the plain facts of the evidence.

Setting aside therefore the witnesses in the case, one of whom was the daughter of the deceased, the only European official engaged in vindicating the law was the Judge who convicted and sentenced the merciless torturers. The native officials, if they did not hinder justice being done, are entitled to no credit for promoting it. The Sub-Magistrate is to be dealt with elsewhere, and the Assessors were unable to see the evidence in the light that it was viewed by the pains-taking English Judge. There could be no plainer case for expressing satisfaction towards the Government in giving the district an English Judge, but as the Prakash must have a grievance, this fact is forgotten in the desire to throw odium on the Criminal Procedure Code.

If the Prakash would but read the facts of the case aright and draw from it fair inferences, he would recommend the immediate disbandment of the native police force, because they practice torture "all over British India," and instead of being the protectors of the people are dreaded by them. In like manner he would recommend the dismissal of native magistrates and abolish all mofussil assessors. Perhaps this would be rushing off to the other extreme, but it would be quite as just towards the native police, native magistrates, and native assessors, as the Prakash is to the Criminal Procedure Code and the British Government.

We do not so much complain of the ignorance too frequently displayed by the native Press as by its perversity. It surely requires no great discrimination to understand the Tanna torture case aright. The conviction of the torturers is a proof that British criminal law will not sanction the use of torture by the police, but on the contrary that it will punish it with the utmost possible rigour, as was done in the Tanna case. The best explanation which the Prakash could have given its readers of that case was to have simply told them that if it had not been for the honesty and integrity of an English Judge, the cruel native torturers would have escaped justice and been permitted to go back to their official posts again to practice their cruelties upon other victims.

THE Bombay Uncovenanted Service Family Pension Fund has now been twelve years or thereabouts in existence, and its operations have proved eminently successful in every way. The fund is strong and increases faster than the money is paid away. The income, inclusive of interest, far exceeds the amount of pensions payable. The lives of the subscribers are not picked lives, but uncovenanted servants of Government contrive to live an unconscionably long time—at least that is the experience in the family pension fund. With a plethora of wealth, the subscribers have resolved that something shall be done to equalise the income and expenditure and so prevent future subscribers from enjoying benefits for which they never subscribed.

Several suggestions have been made to carry out the intention of the subscribers. Some are in favour of a bonus, or, in other words, a division of profits. Nothing can justify such a step; the fund was not established for such a purpose, and the Government 6 per cent. guarantee was never given to be placed in the pockets of living subscribers to the fund. We would advise that this dangerous proposal be at once put down. The rates of subscription may have been pitched too high, but as these rates are by no means oppressive, it is most desirable that they should be continued, and this will dispose of the second proposal to diminish the rates. A third proposal is made to reduce the rates for pensioners 50 per cent. It is said with much force that as pensioners only enjoy 50 per cent. of their salary, they are not so well able to contribute full rates as during their period of service, while their wants are quite as great, and, taking into consideration their families, greater than whenthey were on the effective list. If the question before the subscribers is to consider where relief is most urgently required, then the answer seems to be plain, that it is the class of pensioners who have already contributed most largely to the fund, for whom relief is most desirable. The two first proposals, namely, to divide the profits, and to lower the subscription rates, both effect the only who are in receipt of full salaries and who can best afford to pay full rates. As a matter of equity, a reduction in the rates paid by pensioners would be enjoyed by all the survivers in turn. The pensioners of to-day would be immediately benefitted, it is true, but as all the subscribers look forward to getting on the pension list at the age of 55 or thereabouts, the benefits of reducing the rates in the manner we have indicated would reach all through the subscribers. That course which should not be followed seems so plain that we are astonished the two more selfish and blind proposals have found supporters anywhere.

After the reduction of the rates as applied to pensioners, has been carried and allowed to remain in operation for a period of about four years, the subscribers will be able to decide whether the income of the fund is greatly in excess of the expenditure. If it should then be found to be so, it will be quite time enough for the subscribers to consider the proposal of reducing the subscription rates all round. Under no circumstances should the proposal be entertained of dividing the profits.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

AN adjourned meeting of the Bench of Justices was fixed for the 1st of July to dispose of [illegible] cases. At the time that this adjournment was proposed it was no only competent for the Bench to fix the meeting for this date, but it was quite reasonable to do so. Now that the 1st of July is approaching there is nobody to dispose of the Budget, and the new Act has not made the Commissioner or any body else responsible for doing things which must be left undone by the Bench. The question to be determined is whether the Bench should not meet according to its previous resolution, especially as it has not been succeeded by the new Corporation yet. That such a meeting would be strictly legal, and could be defended under the preamble of the new Act seems pretty certain. The meeting should either be held or the reasons for not holding it should be publicly given, especially as it concerns the further disposal of the Municipal funds.

A MERCHANT's letter dated the 16th May from Bokhara, received by a trader at Cabul, about a conflict between the Russians and the Oorgunjees says:—"A few days ago four thousand Russian troops with some supplies, camels, &c., reached Khal-Atta, twelve leagues from Oorgunj, and they are still there. Yesterday the King of Bokhara received information that five hundred Russians, with three guns, some followers, and camels were in the desert, when the Oorgunjee robbers attacked them, killed and wounded many of them, and took two or three of their officers to the Khan of Khiva. Oorgunjees, Tagas and Yamoots, about sixty thousand in number, have crossed the Oxus and encamped near its bank. Russian troops also are said to have started via Azdar Khan, Kazlee, and Samarcand." This letter appears, however, to be contradicted in the following abstract translation of a letter (no date) from Mahomed Hussain Khan, Meer of Maimena, to Meer Hakim Khan of Shiburgan:—"It appears from the communications of the Turkoman tribes that the Russians started from Noor Atta and defeated the Oorgunjees in the first conflict; that they have now encamped at village Maug-bolak, two stages from Oorgunj; that having arrived via the Balkan hill they gained over the people of Taga and took possession of two or three villages; that the people of Akhal, &c., have deserted their houses and gone to Merve Shahjehan, and are making preparations for war, as the Russians intend to attack them in 'Jauz' (June). Some of the Turkomans of Taga arrived at Sarak and attested this news. A caravan of them is gone to Meshed, and the Kajar tribe have not yet permitted them to return."

THE Madras Athenæum's last noteworthy incubration is regarding Printer's Devils. It has struck the editor that a more appropriate name for this class of mortals would be Printer's Angels; and to support his theory he draws quite an affecting picture of the ordinary Indian compositor. He weeps, he never thinks of his work—we mean the Indian compositor, of course, and not the editor—and finally dies of consumption. The editor is to be complimented for possessing so much of the angelic material within himself as to be able to manufacture from it a new kind of angel which in India it has not been our fortune to encounter. Our P. D. is not, we hope, given to thinking during his working hours of "the feeble little women and hungry big children he has left at home;" neither is he given to silence and allowing "big tears to roll down his sunken cheeks and fall with a pat on the type over which he bends." We have no such maudlin nuisances; if we had, we should address them at once to the editor of the Madras Athenæum. Our P. D.'s are aggressively active instead of sentimental. Our proofs show this a thousand times in a month. The P. D. often gets an idea that he knows what the editor means better than he does himself, and inserts upon his version appearing in the morning broadsheet despite all the proof corrections which the despairing editor may have made over-night. At this very moment we feel the [illegible] of excessive activity. Have we not written "incubation" when it is not our P. D. repeatedly making us speak of "fabrication"?
